REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The present invention relates to an image display device, a pixel drive method and a scan line drive circuit, and more particularly, to a technology of contributing to higher definition of a liquid crystal display device. The prior art of record does not teach or suggest a first group of pixel electrodes sequentially selected during a first horizontal scan period, the first group of pixel electrodes being connected to a specified signal line; a second group of pixel electrodes sequentially selected during a second horizontal scan period after the first horizontal scan period, the second group of pixel electrodes being connected to the specified signal line; a first group of scan lines for supplying scan signals for driving the first group of pixel electrodes during the first horizontal scan period; and a second group of scan lines for supplying scan signals for driving the second group of pixel electrodes during the second horizontal scan period, wherein a specified group of scan lines among the second group of scan lines is selected during the first horizontal scan period to drive a specified pixel electrode among the second group of pixel electrodes, and any one scan line in the specified group of scan lines is not selected for a period from the selection of the specified group during the first horizontal scan period to the drive of the specified pixel electrode during the second horizontal scan period.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
